

Angelina Jolie — Chiron in her chart

Angelina Jolie is well known as an actress. She is also a United Nations goodwill ambassador and volunteer for refugees — a very fitting calling when we consider Chiron in her chart.

Angelina's Chiron in the natal chart is placed in Aries in the 10th house. Its dispositor, Mars, is in Aries as well, in his own sign in the 9th house. To me that indicates that Angelina's vocation of healing is related to being a initiator in the public eye for world topics. There is a need to use her efforts and energies to heal in the field of foreign affairs. She does this beautifully in her role as United Nations goodwill ambassador and volunteer for refugees. Newspaper articles mention that she uses her "pulling power to draw public attention to humanitarian crises in Chad, Sudan and Sierra Leone". This is easily recognisable in her chart with Chiron in Aries (10th house) opposite Uranus in Libra (4th house). Through her humanitarian initiatives she will find balance within herself and her family/home environment.

Thanks to her amazing beauty (Venus conjunct the ascendant) she draws a lot of attention to the public. She is being watched constantly and this helps her in her healing role as an ambassador for the United Nations. With Chiron squaring her Venus in Cancer it is highlighted that her own healing takes place through love and through recognising the beauty in things other people might not see. Hence Angelina is attracted to this role because she is able to give love and she is able to recognise the beauty in helping and serving people in need.

With Mercury in its own sign in the 11th house (retrograde) sextile Chiron she is also blessed with the verbal tools to communicate critical humanitarian issues over and over again. With Mars as her dispositor she has the energy and leader qualities to act in this position with much power and impact. This function in the public eye which confronts her with issues of homeless people is challenging her nurturing and caring personality (Chiron square her Cancer ascendant). Being recognised as an ambassador for the refugees she will need the independence offered to her through the Chiron/Uranus opposition to follow her own path. This constellation provides her with the humanism and responsibility to make her role powerful and successful.

Despite the fact that Angelina's midheaven is out of orb to make a conjunction with Chiron, I would still consider this constellation of having a huge influence. To me this indicates that her role in life lies in a strong healing vocation (Chiron in Aries in 10th house conjunct Aries MC). Mars, her dispositor, is in Aries in the 9th house confirming her ability to educate people in an individual way. A newspaper article saying "celebrities can serve a valuable role by publicising the realities of world problems" is very distinctive and beautifully reflects her chart (Chiron in Aries in the 10th house; dispositor Mars in Aries in the 9th house). The article also states that her remaining in the public eye through her film-career brings more attention to world issues — isn't that another typical indication of what we can read in her chart? Another significant note is Angelina's desire not to influence people, not to tell them what to do but to tell them the truth — Mars, dispositor of Chiron in Aries in the 9th house in full action!

I truly believe that this chart reflects amazingly how Chiron is working actively in Angelina's chart. She has recognised her healing vocation and brings it powerfully (Mars) into action.
